Inside Back Cover
Pepperdine University is an independent, private Christian university enrolling more than 8,800 students in its five colleges and schools. We have drawn students from every state of the union and from more than 80 countries worldwide. Pepperdine is widely regarded to be among the nation’s top universities, known for its high academic standards, its nationally acclaimed Division I athletics program, and its commitment to serving the needs of each and every Pepperdine student.

Our world-renowned, 830-acre Malibu campus is home to our undergraduate school, Seaver College; our Caruso School of Law and School of Public Policy; and programs of the Graziadio Business School and the Graduate School of Education and Psychology. Additionally, our graduate campuses, located throughout Southern California, afford convenient access to mid-career adults pursuing advanced degrees in business, education, and psychology and bachelor’s degrees in business.

The pages of this guide, reflecting specific data from the 2019–20 academic year, will introduce you to each of our schools, our alumni, and our athletics programs, as well as our history, financial data, and some of what makes Pepperdine unique.
BEGINNINGS AND BENEFACORS

In February 1937, against the backdrop of despair and pessimism of the Great Depression, a man named George Pepperdine decided to do a hopeful thing in unhopeful times: endow, erect, dedicate, and accredit a Christian liberal arts college in the city of Los Angeles. Remarkably, led by Mr. Pepperdine’s commitment and passion, only seven months later on September 21, students entered classes on a newly built campus, and by April 6, 1938, George Pepperdine College was fully accredited by the Northwest Association.

As the young college grew over the decades, it caught the attention of entrepreneur, lawyer, and inventor Frank R. Seaver, who mentioned Pepperdine in his will. However, it was his widow, Blanche E. Seaver, who came to wholly embrace the Pepperdine mission. She extended the Seaver family legacy through generous gifts that enabled the school to expand into Malibu in 1972. In 1975 the Malibu campus was named the Frank R. Seaver College, becoming the flagship undergraduate school of the University.
Pepperdine’s graduate business school and its law school were both established in 1969. The former, now the Graziadio Business School, was named in 1996, when George L. Graziadio, Jr., Imperial Bank cofounder and real estate entrepreneur, “adopted” it as his fourth child and endowed it with both his gifts and his name. In the spirit of its namesake, the Graziadio School provides business education that is entrepreneurial in spirit, ethical in focus, and global in orientation.

The law school was named the Caruso School of Law in 2019, the year of its 50th anniversary, in honor of a historic gift from alumnus Rick J. Caruso (JD ’83) and his wife, Tina. A real estate entrepreneur like Graziadio, Caruso has a passion for educational philanthropy. Designed to both strengthen the school’s academic programming and to enable talented students to attend the school who would not otherwise have the means to do so, the Caruso gift will have a significant impact on the school’s students in the years to come.

George L. Graziadio (Jul 6, 1911–Jun 6, 2002)

Rick J. Caruso (JD ’83) (Jan 7, 1959–Present)
1937 George Pepperdine College is founded by entrepreneur and businessman George Pepperdine, founder of Western Auto Supply Company. The original Los Angeles campus is located at the intersection of 79th Street and Vermont Avenue.

1938 George Pepperdine College holds its first commencement ceremony with four graduates: Malcom Hinckley, Carmen Landrum, Paul Tucker, and Richard Gibson.

1938 George Pepperdine College holds its first commencement ceremony with four graduates: Malcom Hinckley, Carmen Landrum, Paul Tucker, and Richard Gibson.

1975 With a historic gift from Blanche E. Seaver, the newly endowed Frank R. Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences becomes the flagship undergraduate school of Pepperdine.

1972 The Malibu campus opens its doors to welcome more than 850 new students, the largest freshman class to date.

1982 Following the founding of the School of Education in 1971, Pepperdine merges the school with the psychology division from the Los Angeles campus to form the Graduate School of Education and Psychology.

1996 Businessman and entrepreneur George L. Graziadio endows the business school, which is renamed in his honor.
1963 Pepperdine launches the first of its renowned international programs in Heidelberg, Germany.

1968 Plans are announced for the construction of a new campus in Malibu following a gift from the Adamson family of a remarkable 138 acres of undeveloped ranch land.

1971 Following the expansion of new schools, George Pepperdine College is announced as Pepperdine University.

1969 Pepperdine College reorganizes the department of business into the School of Business and accepts an offer to acquire the Orange University College of Law to establish the School of Law.

1997 Pepperdine establishes its newest graduate school, the School of Public Policy, which quickly becomes one of the most research-oriented schools at the University.

2003 The 50.4-acre Drescher Graduate campus opens, representing the largest expansion of the Malibu Campus since its inauguration in 1972.

2019 The law school is renamed the Caruso School of Law to commemorate a significant gift from alumnus and real estate developer Rick J. Caruso (JD ’83).

COMMUNITY SAFETY

Pepperdine University is committed to providing a safe and secure environment for all students and community members.

Campus Security:
Department of Public Safety (DPS) officers receive emergency response training including CPR, first aid, and fire response. The Malibu campus entrances are monitored 24 hours a day to ensure vehicles and pedestrians are authorized to access campus. DPS officers provide security escorts 24 hours a day, upon request, and transportation for students with temporary medical conditions impacting mobility. They also provide services such as jump starts and vehicle lockouts.

Emergency Preparedness and Response:
The Office of Emergency Services, the Office of Insurance and Risk, the Department of Public Safety, and the University’s Emergency Operations Committee (EOC), in cooperation with many other departments, work to ensure that Pepperdine upholds the highest standards in emergency preparedness.

During emergencies faculty, staff, and students are informed by the University’s emergency mass notification system. The LiveSafe Mobile App is another tool that provides an immediate path to communicating safety information to 911 or the Department of Public Safety. Community members may also go to the University Emergency Information Page, emergency.pepperdine.edu, for EOC updates and decisions.
